

My name is Adrian Sia Lu and I am excited to be a new member of the Heathmere Board of Governors. My background is in business change and I currently work for Dixons Carphone in their Transformation Office. Previously, I have worked for Capgemini, a consultancy and for Cadbury in marketing. Although I don't have any children, I am very passionate about supporting the development of young people. This is why I am also a Director and Trustee of a university-focused student charity called AIESEC. I live nearby to the school and am glad to be contributing to the local community in Roehampton.

I think about the journey that the school has been on in the past few years and think it has been great to hear about the positive changes and impact that the whole school community has been able to have on the students at Heathmere. I am looking forward to continuing and supporting this journey over the next few years with you.
