

There is so much to write on this week's newsletter!
We will start with science week...

Science Week

It's been Science Week and there's been some fantastic learning in school, starting with an exciting 'Mad Science' assembly on Monday. The children have been carrying out all sorts of investigations and experiments. Some of the children took part in a forensic science workshop and had a chance to look at their fingerprints. Year 3 went to the Science Museum and Year 1 went pond dipping. A great week - make sure you ask your child all about it!

'We've had great fun - Year 5 investigated how catapults work. Mine worked really well.' Ryu, 5A
'I learnt how to make an egg float in water and not sink.' Artur, 1H
'My favourite was when the Mad Scientist explained all about air by blowing tissue over our heads!' Shirley-Ann, 2M
'The best thing was the experiments - we put a skewer through a balloon and it didn't pop!' Beatriz, 6J

Possible Strike Action

I wanted to give you as much notice as possible that the NUT and UNISON are proposing strike action on 10th July. I will let you know as soon as I do about what will be happening.

At the end of the day...

Can I politely request that parents avoid approaching other children on the playground to resolve problems. As parents you are rightly very protective over your own children and therefore do not like it if someone approaches your children. Please therefore remember to not approach other people's children. The staff are here to help with any problems.

Ofsted Update

We had our visit yesterday from the HMI inspector who was very positive about what she saw. If we keep going the way we are and provided there is an improvement in our Y6 test results from last year she sees no reason why we won't be a 'good' school at our next inspection. Ofsted will do their next inspection sometime between now and November.

Carrots!

During the summer term Mr Taylor brought some seeds and he chose some children to help him plant them. We noticed some of the baby carrots had been pulled out, Mr Taylor thought it was rabbits! We had to plant some more carrot and pea seeds. We had so many carrots. Mr Taylor said he is going to make carrot and coriander soup! Chenai 3S

This week, our whole school behaviour focus is: getting along in the playground

Attendance

Whole school attendance last week was 95.0% and 50 were on the benches with a magical 100%. Congratulations to this week's individual attendance winners Sadiyah (Butterfly) and Iman (4G).
